NRO1004

The Tower and Net is a modern take on the classic ladder and slide and adds an extra dimension with the angular net climb to the side. The two net climb entries are a fun and challenging way to get to the slide, and the structure is made of natural Robinia timber, which provides an organic structure that can either blend into or stand out from your surroundings. Children can touch and feel the timber while playing, observing how nature inspiration interacts with the built environment.

Net crossing

Physical: cross coordination, spatial awareness and muscle strength are trained when climbing in the net. Social-Emotional: passing others when climbing through trains turn-taking skills and consideration.

Platform

Social-Emotional: courage, self-confidence, consideration and turn-taking are built when children share the platform.

Climbing net

Physical: the inclined net supports the upward climbing movement of the body. The net supports cross-body coordination, which impacts coordination of the right and left part of brain, fundamental for other skills such as the ability to read. The asymmetry of the net challenges the children's climbing.

Slide

Physical: develops spatial awareness, sense of balance and trains core muscles when sitting upright going down. Social-Emotional: empathy stimulated by turn-taking. Cognitive: young children develop their understanding of space, speed and distances when sliding down.

The overall framework applied for these factors is the Environmental Product Declaration (EPD), which quantifies "environmental information on the life cycle of a product and enable comparisons between products fulfilling the same function" (ISO, 2006). This follows the structure and applies a Life-Cycle Assessment approach to the entire Product stage from raw material through manufacturing (A1-A3))
