This stimulates the child's understanding of object permanence: that things can disappear out of sight but still exist. This is fundamental for understanding that people exist even if you don't see them and thus is an important cognitive skill. The window, clock and bell invite hours of dramatic play. This is known to stimulate language development. The mirror builds up the child's understanding of individuality and makes for hours of fun. The play panel as such encourage social interaction and cooperation in dramatic and explorative play.

NRO603

Mirror

Cognitive: understanding of individuality and self expression. Stimulates dramatic play and thus language and communication development.

Shelf

Cognitive: suggests a theme and supports dramatic play, which stimulates languages and communication skills. Gives the option of hiding or storing items as part of dramatic play or explorative play.

Desk flaps w. holes Social-Emotional: cooperation, turn-taking and parallel play inspired by the two flaps. Cognitive: shifting things through holes to shelf supports logical thinking and the understanding of object permanence.

Social-Emotional: invites interaction between sides and cooperative play.

Clock and bell panel

Cognitive: understanding cause and effect when ringing bell, learning about numeracy and time in a tangible way. Creative: leaving a mark in creating new positions on clock or with sound creating a rhythm when ringing or knocking the bell.

The overall framework applied for these factors is the Environmental Product Declaration (EPD), which quantifies "environmental information on the life cycle of a product and enable comparisons between products fulfilling the same function" (ISO, 2006). This follows the structure and applies a Life-Cycle Assessment approach to the entire Product stage from raw material through manufacturing (A1-A3))
